NICKLE'S WORTH

What makes a successful club? Is it determined by how many members there are? Is it determined by how rich they are? A successful club in my opinion is determined by how the members participate in the operation of the club. How many members must participate to be successful? Is it by numbers or is it a percentage of the membership? I think that most clubs have a small percentage of dedicated members that keep the club going, with some help from the rest of club. What is the percentage? It could be as low as 1 percent in clubs with a large membership or as much as 25 percent in clubs with a small membership. Whatever the percent, it is the dedication, belief, and enjoyment of the clubs mission. Without those individuals the clubs will wither and die. Do these people do it for the glory or for the fact that they believe in the mission of the club. This is true for not only CAS clubs but for any other club or organization.
